

IN RE KEYLA MARIE MARTINEZ-HELD
05-44664-BKC-LMI

A Chapter 7 Debtor does not have an absolute right to voluntarily dismiss of his or her case. While it may or may not be true that dismissal of a chapter 7 case can be conditioned on the payment of the Trustee's attorneys' fees, if such a condition is appropriate; it should be made on a case-by-case basis, mindful of the facts and circumstances leading to the debtor's motion for voluntary dismissal.